

Art Quilt Class
November 5,6, 2011
Roxann O'Hare

Roxann hesitates to call herself an "art quilter". She prefers "pack rat" quilter. While in the end it may be an art quilt, it certainly starts out with a pile of "stuff". She incorporates many fabrics as well as recycled garments and non-traditional items. Most often building a "pile" of stuff then letting the items determine how and what they will become.

Supply List:

Table cover & paper towels

Rubber gloves and apron

Fabric scraps and trims and anything else you want to play with

Assorted paint brushes

Sewing machine for the 2nd day

On the first day, we play with latradur, felt, nontraditional items & create a transfer using packaging tape. Basically, we create our collage items.

On the second day, we assemble our parts to create art quilts – each one unique to the individual.

 For a fee of $12.00 per student, I provide the basics to get started as well as a "buffet" table of items for class use.
